BASEBALL PARK JOURNAL: Dozer Park

Individual game tickets for the 2019 season go on sale March 1st. Order tickets over the phone, you may call TicketReturn toll free at 1-866-MYTICKET (1-866-698-4253) or (309) 680-4008. You may also order tickets at www.milb.com/peoria/tickets/single-game-tickets.

Official groundbreaking ceremonies for the stadium took place on August 16, 2001. The stadium opened on May 24, 2002. On May 10, 2013, Caterpillar and the Chiefs announced that the stadium would be renamed "Dozer Park", a reference to Caterpillar bulldozers.

In the field, beneath 8 inches of a sand and peat mix, are 6 inches (150 mm) of gravel. Running through the gravel are drainage tiles that run from home plate to center field. A huge sump pump beyond center field then drains into the city sewer system. The makeup of the pitcher's mound and batter's boxes are almost 100% clay because it packs better and is wear resistant. The rest of the infield skin area is around 40% clay, 30% silt and 20% sand. The field will hold up to 5 inches (130 mm) of rain an hour.

Dozer Park accommodates 20 luxury suites. Examples include:

- Peoria attorney Jay Janssen's suite — "A large, ornate Oriental rug covers most of the green-carpeted suite, which includes six candelabra wall sconces, a chandelier in the center, cherry wood cabinetry and chair rail, decorative border print, a green marble-topped table, a rose-colored granite pedestal bar overlooking the field and burgundy leather stools and chairs. In the kitchenette, a full-sized refrigerator is accompanied by a full-size oven and a sink with a chrome-plated faucet."
- Caterpillar, Inc. owns a double suite that is primarily used to entertain the customers and VIP guests the company hosts in the community.

Other than the five fixed concession stands, there are mobile carts around the park. The Chiefs' concessionaire is Professional Sports Catering.

UKRAINIAN ALMOND COOKIES

2 cup flour

1 cup unsalted butter (= 2 sticks, about 16 tablespoons, slightly warmed in a microwave oven, etc.);

4 tablespoon sugar

1 cup almonds without skin (see below)

1 cup confectioner's sugar

2 tablespoons vanilla sugar

Warm milk (see below)

You will need: a good nut grinder, mixer, something to remove hot cookie sheets. The recipe calls for a slightly buttered cookie sheets, but excellent results can be obtained by one that is non-stick. A food processor WILL NOT grind the almonds properly.

Regarding the almonds: if you can't get the almonds without skins, take the almonds and dump them in very hot water and let them soak for a few minutes. The skins can then be easily removed. The wet almonds are to thoroughly dry (I let them dry overnight).

Regarding the warm milk: This will be used in making the dough, the amount to add when making the dough will be a trail-and-error process.

Steps:

Grind the almonds and set aside. The result will be almost like an almond flour. Mix confectioner's sugar and vanilla sugar well and set aside. Mix sugar, butter, flour, and ground almonds. Add milk as needed so you have dough.

Partition the dough into four almost-equal pieces, remove one piece and put the rest in the refrigerator (so it will stay cool).

Preheat oven to 400F;

Take remaining piece, cut it into small sections, and, using your hands, form it into something that looks like dowel rod about 1/2 inch thick. Cut the "rod" into pieces that are about 2 to 3 inches long and form them into something that looks like a "C" Put each "C" onto the cookie. Do this for the rest of the dough; while working, keep unused dough in the refrigerator.

The recipe calls for baking for 15 minutes; I had excellent results at 12 minutes. The tips of most of the "Cs" should be gently brown when ready to be removed.

Removed sheet from oven, put cookies on something where they can cool for a minute or so. Be careful as the cookies will be fragile. While warm, coat each cookie with the confectioner's sugar/vanilla sugar, gently shake off excess sugar and place in storage.

Enjoy! Total time excluding removing skins from almonds is under three hours and yields several dozen cookies.
